Pioneers Honored

Mr. and Mrs. F. X. Beingsener were the guests of honor at a gathering held in the Alton Community hall last week, when they were presented with two handsome easy chairs and also $10 in cash as a slight token of the esteem in which they were held after their long residence in the district. A programme followed in which community singing led by G. M. Campbell, a reading by D. H. Galbraith and solos by Art Hopkins and Luke Ohlheiser were outstanding features. Refreshments and dancing completed a splendid evening. Mr. and Mrs. Beingsener will move to Calgary and all wish them success and happiness in their new home.

Owing to the fact that Christmas Day occurs one day before date of issue it has been decided to omit the issue for Christmas week in this instance. Consequently there will be no paper until Jan. 2, 1930.

Lost—Twenty dollar share certificate in Champion Community Hall. Finder, please return to Chronicle office.

Wishes for a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year are extended to all readers of The Chronicle.

B. M. Roberts, who spent the past three weeks in Barrow, returned to town this week.

Women's Institute Dance
Friday, December 27

The dance under the auspices of the W.I. on Friday, December 27th, promises to be one of the big events of the season in that line. The Lee Davis orchestra will supply the music. A big attendance is anticipated.

C. A. Johnson, formerly head driller on the local well is now in charge of drilling operations for the Hudson Bay Manland interests at Eyremore and High River.

K. R. McLean, R.O. of Anderson & McLean, Sight Specialists 208 8th Ave. West, Calgary, will make his monthly visit to Champion Friday, January 31st at the Drug Store.

Everyone is looking forward to enjoyable holidays with increased assurance of having a good time since the long, cold streak of weather is broken.

Chinooks should now be the order of the day for some time. F. X. Beingsener wishes to thank both the public and sale officials for their efforts to make his sale the big success it was.

THURSDAY, Dec. 10, 1929

LOCAL AND GENERAL

The Alberta Provincial Seed Fair and convention of Alberta seed growers will be held in Calgary on Jan. 20 to 24, 1930.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Castator left on Monday for Flat River, Missouri where they will spend the winter.

Dan McAuley is reported as being out of danger at the Galt hospital, Lethbridge, with chances of an early return home. Congratulations, Dan.

The 22nd annual convention of the U.F.W.A. and Junior locals will be held in the Central United Church, Calgary, on Jan. 21 to 24, inclusive.

Mrs. C. Boner and daughters, Lorena and Mildred, left for the south during the week, California being the objective of the former and latter, while Lorena goes to Portland.

There will be no December meeting of the Ladies' Aid next meeting will be held on Jan. 9 at the home of Mrs. P. O. Sommerre. Election of officers will be one of the items on the program at this meeting.

The dance under the auspices of the Women's Institute, Friday, Dec. 27th will be one of attractions of the holiday season. Len Davis and his orchestra will provide the music, and every effort will be made to insure a good time for all those who attend.

Both picture and the magician were exceptionally entertaining on Saturday night at the show. It is understood the latter has promised a return date as the cold weather was unfavorable to the turnout on Saturday.

The snowfall during the past three weeks has been greater at many points than here, but what we have had almost established a record for this vicinity. At least a foot of snow on the level is enough without trying to make it measure more. Fortunately there has been no wind and as yet roads are open in every direction, although very heavy where the traffic is light. Sleighs are in more general use than for many years. The temperature has hovered in the vicinity of zero and below and the cold weather and deep snow are hard on feed, as cattle particularly cannot get to anything but straw-piles outside.

A short time ago a "head on" collision occurred about a mile from the Yetwood school house, between a Whippet car owned and driven by our esteemed fellow villager, James Sallows, and another car or probably truck which was being operated without lights. The latter car without waiting to see if anyone was injured made a rapid get-away and up to the present date no clue to him has been forthcoming. It will be well for him if he succeeds in concealing his identity. His number in the darkness could not be ascertained. Mr. Sallows' car was seriously damaged and had to be towed to Lomond for repairs. Fortunately no one was injured.—Lomond Press.

Merry Christmas.

Mrs. U. S. Alexander is secretary of the W.I. and not Mrs. Dow, as stated in last week's issue.

A number of boys and girls motored out to F. Caldwell's on Friday, the occasion being Max's birthday.

Little Mavis Moffatt was host at a very pleasant birthday party on Friday afternoon. A variety of games was enjoyed and the children had much fun. A great deal of the excitement of the party centred around the birthday cake with its tiny candles.

The bazaar held by the Catholic Women's League in the Community hall on Saturday Nov. 30, proved to be a very successful affair. All afternoon interested buyers kept the booths busy. The chicken supper was well attended. Mr. R. L. Baker won the audience set. Mildred Fath won the box of apples. To all who helped in anyway the league expresses sincere thanks. The sum of $360 was realized.

A Merry Christmas.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Waldron left for Chester, Montana to spend Christmas.

Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Beaubier left for Flint, Michigan on Wednesday, J. O. Bell is moving into their residence.

Mrs. Geo. Taylor wishes to thank the W. I. for the beautiful flowers sent during her recent illness.

The sun has again made an appearance after the most persistent cloudy weather ever experienced here. While the roads are rather heavy the weather with higher temperatures would result in more movement than has taken place for some weeks past.

The bridge club spent a very jolly evening at the home of Mrs. E. H. Freeze on Monday evening, the honors being carried off by Mrs. Hammel and Mrs. Campbell consolation. The home was beautifully decorated with Xmas trimmings and a delicious lunch was served by the hostess.

A skating party was held in the rink on Tuesday night by the Young People's Club. After skating they proceeded to the church were hot-dogs and coffee were served. A very enjoyable time was spent.

partment of Industry and Commerce, has been appointed New Zealand trade commissioner in Canada.

The Canadian Government has un-Oriental immigration into British Columbia in 1928 was 573, exactly the same number as in the previous year.

The Canadian Immigration Bureau announced the current statistics.

The British Government may ex-

To Cut Air Mail Schedule

Feasibility Of Pick-Up Device Proved By Tests

An air mail pick-up device, capable of being attached to a small sack while an airplane is in full flight, may exist cutting air mail schedules fifteen minutes to an hour according to the American Air Transport Association, which says the tests of the device already made promise of its future adoption on many of the country's twenty-four air mail routes.

The tests being made at Yard-ington, Okla., prove the feasibility of catching a small bag of mail at swings on the end of a 75-foot cable attached to a plane in full flight. The device is a V-shaped trap set in the ground. When a mail bag from the plane is caught in the trap the device automatically attaches another bag, which is hauled up into the plane. Similar tests are being carried out in the United States and in England, and the first flight of mail at sea, on the S.S. Leviathan.

The theory which postal officials, air mail operators and the inventor are working on is that an air mail 'plane can leap over a line of sweep and pick up the mail and hand it to a similar device near the post office in the city at the other end of the line, and then go on to that city's airport.

Canada's Forest Areas

The total forest area of Canada, including the 82,260 square miles of forest on agricultural land, is estimated to be 1,151,454 square miles, and of this about 1,100,000 square miles is essentially forest land which can be utilized to the best advantage under forest.

Manitoba Tourist Industry

According to the latest figures published by the industry, brought about $5,667,000 into the province, or an increase of about $1,000,000 over last year's figures. Convention visitors numbered 37,000, a gain of 8,500 over 1928.

Telephones To Ship At Sea

Can Communicate By 'Phone With Liners A Thousand Miles From Shore

Communication by telephone from the mainland will ships at sea become a permanent service project between New York and the liner Leviathan, 200 miles off shore, bound for Europe.

President Walter Gifford of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, formally opened the service by "ringing up" Captain Cunningham of the Leviathan.

The first message to be sent was a short one, a short message to be delivered to the Leviathan by telephone came from Atlantic City, where, in his hotel room, Will H. Rankin, advertising man, charted for five minutes with Sir John, a passenger. Rankin is the first man to pay money for such a privilege.

The service was perfect. Rankin noted the yachtman immediately when he was called, and when he told him he would return to win America's Cup with the Shamrock V.

Telephone communication with ocean liners will remain good until the vessel is beyond 1,000 miles from shore. The flat rate for a three-minute conversation between New York and the Leviathan is $21, with an additional $7 for each additional minute.

Pedestrians Wear Lights

Safety First Measure Is Adopted In The Streets Of London

"Irate drivers of automobiles soon will be given a new headache when a growing custom becomes universal. Traffic has become so congested in London, that wary pedestrians are ringing themselves of their present yellowish-green electric lights and replacing them with red ones consisting of an electric light and reflector mounted on a luminous card worn on the back, and suspended from the shoulders by a cord."

Canada's Highways Important

The highways in Canada are becoming increasingly important year by year in the economic structure of the country. Over them is carried a very heavy traffic, both passenger and freight, especially between the large cities and towns. At the end of 1928 the total mileage of surfaced roads in Canada was 64,121.

Peace On Earth, Goodwill Toward Men

"Interdependence," a monthly review published by the League of Nations Society, in Canada, has special sections on Canada and incidentally on the cause of world peace, by printing its current issue the complete text of the magnificently inspiring speech delivered by the Rt. Hon. J. Ramsay MacDonald, at the state dinner tendered him by the Government of Canada, in the House of Commons at Ottawa. Mr. MacDonald's fine message to the Canadian people, containing such a sincere and impassioned appeal for international cooperation, and the love of peace, was listened to over the radio by hundreds of thousands of people in this country and the United States. That national service is now strengthened by the reprint of the full text of Mr. MacDonald's speech, thus enabling people to read this message again and ponder over it at their leisure.

This same issue of "Interdependence," which, as you know, is distributed to members of the League of Nations Society throughout Canada or has been sent to them, also contains the text of the address given by Roach Primo, the 18-year-old Quebec boy, who won the International Oratorical Contest, held at Washington, D.C., before President Hoover, in October last. The subject of Roach Primo's address was "Canadians in the Dominion," and like President Roosevelt, he is worthy of the consideration of the people of this country. It will intensify a Canadian's pride in, and love for his Dominion. Equally important, and essential to that pride and love, will it further impress upon all readers the absolute necessity for the cultivation of understanding and goodwill among all classes of the Canadian population, based on knowledge, which alone can transform the world. The spirit with which Roach Primo spoke, through which designing persons seek to sway the emotions of our people. Mutual understanding, mutual goodwill, mutual appreciation of each other's work, must exist as the basis of peace and cordiality of relations among the various races which make up Canada's population.

Domestic peace is the first step necessary to say the first requirement if this Dominion is to successfully play the role of peace protagonist among all the nations, and an effective member of the League of Nations. From the inception of the League of Nations, Canada has been one of its most influential members. The influence of this Dominion in the cause of world peace, greater than any other, and the world would never award to it. That influence radiates from the successes already achieved by Canada in solving for itself some of the most vexing problems now troubling older countries. That influence can be retained and further extended to the extent only that Canadians themselves put into every day practice those rules of conduct which the maintenance of peace among all nations, and the observance of Canada's laws, demands.

Canada stands for world peace. This fact is recognized by all nations. It is also recognized that as people we have no ulterior motives in our membership in the League of Nations; that our presence there is solely from a desire to serve others and further the cause of international goodwill and world peace. As a people we may also be interested in the fact that our influence in the development of world peace is based upon mankind. We give in unlimited measure, and we are paying our own bills without asking help from anybody. This is recognized and appreciated by other nations, and our influence is correspondingly great. So, too, is our responsibility. We must, therefore, first be true to ourselves and to those ideals we advocate for adoption by all other people.

Finally, "Interdependence" notes with satisfaction the offer of Premier Mackenzie King to provide suitable copies of the Bland-Kollogg pact, outlining war to Provincial Departments of Education which will undertake to distribute them to the schools, and to churches which will give it a place in their curriculum. The time has come when the best way to insure the determination in the minds of the people consequent through the schools and churches can the next generation be best reached. The pact, which Canada's signature is attached, outlawing war as an instrument of national policy, should have a place on the walls of every church and school throughout that broad Dominion. It is a message of "Peace on earth, goodwill toward men."

Congratulates Winner

Herman Trele Is Pleased That Red Spring Reward Wheat Takes Highest Honors

"Nobody is more pleased than I am over the fact that Joseph Smith of Weyburn, Saskatchewan, won the world's wheat champion at Chicago," declared Herman Trele, of Weyburn, Peace River, former holder of the championship. "I am particularly pleased that the Spring Reward wheat was winning wheat."

It was recalled by Mr. Trele that the district where the championship wheat was grown was not considered previously as a particularly good growing place. The wheat, however, by Mr. Smith, he added, showed that varieties of grain can be adapted for any conditions in Alberta and are bound to prove successful if the experiments are made by persons with the qualifications of the 1929 champion.

Clothing and Safety

Industrial Institutions Enforcing Rules Against Ragged Work Suits

Workmen on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad were recently warned to stop wearing ragged clothing. There will be no more ragged sleeves, dangling tatters on shirts, or baggy soles. The matter of neatness enters into the decision to enforce the rule, but the greater factor is that of safety.

It is only within the last few years that those in charge of industry have come to a full realization of the danger that lies in loose and ragged clothing. Workmen who use machinery are in constant peril. If anything is dangling from their clothes, which is likely to become caught in a belt or flywheel. The constantly moving machinery, resulting from this cause, finally taught its lesson, and more and more factories and other industrial institutions are enforcing rules of safe dressing.

As a matter of fact, a large part of safety in industry has to do with clothing.

Largest Free Tree Distribution

8,673,650 Trees Sent Out to Prairie Farmers In Spring of 1929

The number of trees distributed in the spring of 1929 by the tree nurseries maintained by the Forest Service, Department of the Interior at Indian Head and Sutherland, Saskatchewan, was the largest ever sent out in any year up to date.

The largest number of trees sent to farmers in the Prairie Provinces was 8,673,650—4,360,174 from the Indian Head nursery, and 4,313,475 from the Sutherland nursery. The total number of applicants who received trees was 7,452.

Making Survey For Gibraltar Tunnel

Work Likely to Involve Large Political As Well As Engineering Factors

The work of examining the rock strata of the Straits of Gibraltar for a tunnel between Europe and Africa is under way, but while the attention of the world is focused on its structural problems, the tunnel also has involved political and engineering factors.

During the World War the captain general at Cadiz, who now is Premier Primo de Rivera, made a speech suggesting that Spain should return the side of the straits and that in return for this England should give Gibraltar back to Spain. The captain general lost his position for making this speech as an official. This was Primo de Rivera's first political speech.

When Primo de Rivera became dictator in 1923, no one remembered the speech, and he was able to return to Cadiz. Spain always has had a secret desire to get Gibraltar back and it is expected the tunnel project will be an excuse for the subject. It is believed that if the premier made an arrangement to get Gibraltar back it would be an achievement that Spain never would forget.

A retrenchment program has been announced by the Spanish government, and it is expected that it would spend money on the tunnel for years. It is not expected that England would part with Gibraltar, but if the tunnel leads to the reopening of negotiations, it is believed that the Spanish would gain possession of the straits for 100 or 50 years, possibly with a renewal option there would be great rejoicing at Madrid.

Pirates Plans Frustrated

Chinese Pirates Are Captured By Aid Of Wireless

The alertness of a wireless operator prevented the escape of Chinese pirates who killed the third officer of the steamer "Halching," attempted to kidnap the vessel and finally set fire to it.

British warships, the "Serpent" and "Sterling," were sent to the scene to the fire and captured the pirates before they could get away. The two war craft towed the "Halching" to Hong Kong, with all the pirates prisoners aboard.

The pirates had their plans according to the regular system. They boarded the "Halching" as regular passengers with the 2,080-ton vessel belonging to the Douglas Steamship Company, left Swatow for Hong Kong.

Early this morning they swarmed out and attacked the bridge. Members of the crew returned the fire and captured the pirates. Their third officer, A. Woodward, died and ten persons of wounds and First Officer R. Perry was also wounded. Several of the pirates were killed.

For the first time in their first attempt to kidnap the ship, they apparently still hoped to gain control, after which they would plunder the "Halching" and escape in boats to the nearby shore. But they were reckoned with the wireless operator and the warships.

Interesting Wild Life

Many interesting wild animals known to most people in a zoo can be seen and studied in their natural environment in the Canadian National Park in the southwest corner of the province of Alberta. In this reserve there are big-horn, or Rocky Mountain sheep, mountain goat, black bear, moose, elk, beaver, and many kinds of small fur-bearers.

Miller's Worm powders will clear the stomach and bowels of worms, so that the spring children will not be troubled by their ravages. The powders are sweet to the taste and no child will object to taking them. They are non-injurious in their composition, and while in some cases they may cause a slight irritation, this is not to be regarded as a sign that they are nauseating, but as an indication of their effective work.

"His worm," wrote the proud parent to the school-master, "a natural bent in any direction?" "He has," replied the master. "He gives every indication of being an industrious midget some day. He gets all the other boys to do all his work for him."

SYNOPSIS

Al Stone, singing waiter at Blackie's Joe, New York night club, is loved by Greta, a blonde girl. Al doesn't know it, but he doesn't know it. He marries Molly, Winton, a balding singer, and wins the love of the public. The songs when their baby, Junior, is about two years old, Molly clings with the love of a mother to Al. But Al and Perry take the child Al addresses and call for France. Al, broken by the thought of his wife, goes to New York later he drifts into Blackie's place at night, where Grace Fenton, who still loves him, sings. Al goes to the club to see if stage a come-back. They leave the club together shortly after dark, but as they reach the street Al stages.

CHAPTER XXVI.

"What's the matter?" Al asked anxiously.

"It's just the effect of coming suddenly into the sunlight after all that has happened. I have to move, I don't quite know my next directions. And I look so terrible down-and-out in this bright daylight."

It was true. Al's appearance was painfully seedy, but Grace dismissed that.

"We'll soon fix everything," she said confidently. "And Al—?"

"Yes."

"If I help you to help, you must give me all your confidence—tell where you're living and promise not to run away again."

"Will, Grace," Al answered aper-tly, in the tone of a child who wants desperately to make a good impression. "I'll—"

Grace smiled in spite of her attempt to appear a stern type.

"Well, then, come along."

As they strolled along the sunlit street, with Al occasionally sending a long glance up at Grace, she could not help but realize that their positions were reversed from the time when she had first known him. Then she had been a frightened child, torn from the保护 of her mother, and Al had protected her from the now-old Blackie's place. Now she was almost leading that same man as if he were a child, protecting him and encouraging him constantly. Her heart was ready to burst with pride and love.

"Where do you live?" she asked.

"I'm over there," said Al, vaguely indicating the East Side. "You know, I'm not right. I hate for you to walk over there. It's such a dump. Just a rickety, cheap hotel—almost like a flop house."

"That doesn't matter to me," said Grace quickly, "but if you'd rather go home with me, right? Don't think I care where you clothes or where you live, or anything like that. I just care about you."

There was no mistaking the look in Grace's eyes. Al realized at last that she loved him. He had been voted at it how could she love a down-and-out like him? He felt a rapid throb under his flannel-ed vest, an emotion he had not known for a long time. He wanted to put his arms about her and tell her how much she meant to him, but he held back.

back. This was neither the time nor the place.

"Before you go home," suggested Grace, "walk over to the Square with me. I live near there. We can sit on a bench and talk for a while. It will be good for you."

Al nodded. Presently they emerged from the canyons of streets to the wide green expanse of Washington Square.

"How beautiful it is," said Grace. "I thought it would make you feel better. The leaves are turning red and yellow. And see how nice the green grass looks. I never saw the trees here, but try this bunch."

Al sat down and relaxed. His eyes had closed. The autumn morning sunlight slanted down between two skyscrapers, spreading fan-shaped light over the trees. In the distance the white arch Italian stone children played on the south side, while in the northern part of the Square the children of the rich toddled about, under the watchful eyes of nurses.

"You say you live near here?" Al asked finally.

"Yes, just around the corner on Waverley Place. I have a room."

"Oh, yes! Some big old girl's room, I suppose. I have been to many a room like that once—'T have a room.' She had a room, but, like thousands of other girls in the metropolis, she had no real home, no family, nothing much but dreams. Yet she had a room, a room with a smiling, thoughtful Al, while the—the scene remained unfinished.

He rose. "Grace, you're the nicest girl in the world! I know it—now. Wait! Tell a great deal about that room. But now you must go home and get some sleep. I'll go my way—and—I'll see you tonight at Blackie's."

Grace stood beside him, eyes glowing, mouth slightly open. She sat him hard seated. Suddenly he leaned over and kissed her.

"Bye-bye, little one. It's I who should do the thanking."

"You'll see me tomorrow. If I don't see you again, it will be a different person. You just won't know Al Stone in his glad garments. And listen—you see that hotel over there—the white one?"

"Yes."

"Well, will my address tomorrow.
Then we'll be near each other and I can walk home with you every morning from Blackie's place. Tell Doris I'll be there to turn up a right time when I'll be home again."

Al was walking away, with Grace staring after him. He strode along briskly now and when he reached the edge of the park he turned and walked to the little bridge.

For a moment Grace waited after he had disappeared, then she turned the other way toward her own home.
Passers-by saw her face knew that once she had found happiness.

Al had spoken of his desire to keep up that rapid pace. He maintained it until he reached his hotel bedroom, then sat down on the side of the bed, verging on physical exhaustion. The room was dark and the feeling communicated of the life he had brought, brought a sudden wave of depression. But he fought it off, rose and began pacing the room.

"I've got to live," he told himself sighfully. "That little girl down after all she's done for me—never!"

He quickly opened a bureau drawer, took out his old sock and drew forth of it a small, tightly folded piece of cloth from his coat pocket, then ran from the room as if escaping from a scene of pestilence.

An hour later he entered a room he had never seen before. He was shaved and his hair was trimmed. A clerk looked at him suspiciously, but finally decided to approach.

"I want some clothes. Shirts, ties, socks, shoes—just the whole thing."

"The clerk's nose rose a trifle higher."

"It's all right," said Al and added simply, "I have the money." When he drew out his roll of bills the clerk's eyes widened.

"I've got the best you've got—and suppose we start on a blue serge suit.

I always liked blue serge. Then I want some tweeds and some evening clothes."

The clerk saw a big commission check and stepped lively to supply Al's wants.

But he couldn't help wondering if this bum had stolen the money or if some rich relative had left him that sum in his favor.

As they went from counter to counter Al's sense of shame at his rundown appearance left him; he even began to take a keen delight in the wonder and excitement among the clerks and other customers.

Grace had gone home to sleep as Al suggested. It was sleep broken by rosy dreams, during which she seemed to be getting gently under a clear blue sky. When she awoke it was afternoon. Soon she was hurrying toward Blackie's club.

Now it was well on toward midnight and Al had not appeared.

Grace bent over her accounts and checked the waiters as they passed by.

Her. Was Al going to fail her? would he prove too weak to make the comeback, after all her efforts? She drove the thoughts resolutely from her.

Child Slavery in China

Authorities Find It Very Difficult To Deal With Situation

In connection with the introduction of a bill into the Hong Kong legislature for the abolition of the "multiple wives" system little girls were said to dominate discussions and it was safely assumed that the system could not be done away with by legislation, but required the education of public opinion.

In effect this was the explanation of the failure of the British Government to wipe out this blot. Forty years ago Lord Kimberley, the then governor of the colony, found that the Chinese law which was then in practice existed. From then onwards there have been constant proclamations making the purchase of children between the ages of four and fourteen years illegal.

The obvious evasion was that by religion and tradition it was customary to "adopt" children as the companions of the wealthy or even as servants. Certain money was paid for them as a form of adoption.

In some ways, it was argued, the children were better off with their new owners as they often came from poor homes. However, it is known common knowledge that these children were, and are, treated with cruelty, made to serve as drudges, and even employed for purposes.

Big Project Being Planned

England, France, Italy, East and South of Europe.

A project for reclaiming a vast section of Europe of supporting 20,000,000 people and which sank into the North Sea 500,000 years ago is now being considered.

The project contemplates a huge area of land, mostly in the British Isles, the Netherlands, Germany and Denmark, and another band across the English Channel from Dover to Calais. It is figured that the scheme would cost upwards of $100,000,000.

The project would be a great stretch of land which formerly connected England with the continent and which is believed to be rich in agricultural and mineral possibilities.

The project is the plan, feasible, say engineers. The do not, however, attempt to forecast the political problem of dividing the land among England, Belgium, Holland, Denmark and Germany would be solved.
